

The whole point of the no call list is to protect me from all the calls I received from people trying to sell me stuff I didn't ask for. To allow companies I have done any business with to now call me up and try to sell me more things I don't want is ridiculous. Keep the no call list how it is.